

One Visual Identity

A single look, applied everywhere, so anything published is recognisable as yours before the name is read.

SEPT
THEN APPLIED THROUGHOUT

WHY IT MATTERS

Across four Facebook presences, TikTok, X and the website there is no shared visual language. Nothing you post can be identified by sight. Meanwhile supporter pages produce material in a dozen different styles, all attributed to you.

An identity is also protection: material that looks official is harder to counterfeit and easier to trust.

WHAT GETS BUILT

- A core system — one mark, one type pairing, one colour set, defined properly
- Templates for the fact cards, quote cards, event graphics and lower-thirds
- An audio mark for video, so a clip is recognisable with the sound on and the screen off
- A short guide supporter pages can follow, turning scattered goodwill into consistent output
- Print assets for banners, tents and programme materials

THE SYSTEM, IN MINIATURE

ONE DISPLAY FACE · ONE TEXT FACE

Applied to fact cards, lower-thirds, print and the site — so a post is recognisable before it is read.

Four colours, two typefaces, one mark. Everything else follows from these.

SKILLS · GRAPHIC DESIGN · BRAND DEVELOPMENT · TYPOGRAPHY · PRINT · AUDIO BRANDING

TIMELINE

Two to three weeks in September, then it costs nothing to keep using.

WHAT I NEED

A decision on which Facebook presences consolidate, and sign-off on one direction rather than a committee.

NOTE

Any branding placed on cooperative property needs legal clearance first. Programme names are safer than personal ones.

DONE LOOKS LIKE

Someone scrolling past recognises the post as yours before reading a word of it.
